

Over the past year, I've come from almost no knowledge of web development to being confident using HTML, CSS, SCSS, and JS. I've recently begun learning the Vue.js framework.

I have developed my skills in attention to detail, organisation, and design throughout my previous career, and I am proficient in following design specifications, including responsive web design, closely. I am proud of the high standards I set for myself and believe that I would be an asset to any web development team.

I have recently completed the 4 week edX Web Accessibility course. Disabled users account for a big chunk of the market (~16%), and reaching them (without compromising usability) is an exciting challenge for me.

I am eager to apply myself to a challenging new role as a Frontend Web Developer and I am confident that I have the skills and qualities you are looking for in a candidate.
